Sacramento County Redistricting Workshops Continue
Public input encouraged at workshops and online

Sacramento County Registrar of Voters Jill LaVine reminds residents that community workshops to review and comment on the proposed redistricting plans will continue through June 15. LaVine said she is pleased with the public participation at the workshops held so far. "Attendees have been very interested and engaged in the redistricting process," adds LaVine.

Comments and recommendations collected at these workshops, and those made online, will be included in a report and presented to the Board of Supervisors during a public hearing on Tuesday, July 26 at 2:15 p.m., 700 H Street, Suite 1450, Sacramento.

The public is invited to attend any of the remaining community workshops:

Tuesday, May 24	6:30-8:00 p.m.	Supervisor Don Nottoli	Cosumnes CSD, Board Room 8820 Elk Grove Blvd, Elk Grove
Wednesday, May 25	7:30-8:30 a.m.	Supervisor Phil Serna	Pancake Palace 6225 Watt Ave., North Highlands
Thursday, May 26	6:30-8:00 p.m.	Supervisor Susan Peters	Swanston Park Community Center 2340 Northrop Ave., Sacramento
Friday, May 27	7:30-8:30 a.m.	Supervisor Roberta MacGlashan	Denny's Restaurant 6215 Sunrise Ave., Citrus Heights
Wednesday, June 1	5:00-7:00 p.m.	Supervisors Phil Serna and Jimmie Yee	Oak Park Community Center 3425 Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd., Sacramento
Tuesday, June 7	6:30-8:00 p.m.	Supervisor Don Nottoli	Rancho Cordova Library 9845 Folsom Blvd., Sacramento
Wednesday, June 15	5:00-7:00 p.m.	Supervisor Phil Serna	Sam Gordon Neighborhood Center 400 16 th Street, Sacramento

Every ten years the County must redraw the supervisorial district lines using new census data. Births, deaths and moving all contribute to population shifts from one census to the next. Based on the 2010 census, Sacramento County's supervisorial district lines must be redrawn to keep the average population in each district at about 282,000. Three districts will grow, while two will shrink.
